- 1. The FWC discussion paper referred to FWC services targeting “immigrants/non-citizens”. The fact sheet on changes to the program and the guidelines shows one of the eligible groups for financial capability services as: “newly arrived migrants/non-citizens (priority to be given to newly arrived refugees)” Could you please clarify this, for example by defining “newly-arrived” and defining whether “newly arrived” applies to non-citizens. For example would long-term residents who are non-citizens (e.g. New Zealand citizens) be eligible?

This eligibility criteria for the Financial Capability activity is not intended to provide services to long term residents of Australia who are not citizens.
